

Pain Management in Primary Care

Course Description

This course is an introduction to myofascial trigger point therapy using acupuncture, dry needling techniques, and trigger point injections. Emphasis is given to hands-on palpatory evaluation and safe use of needling and injection techniques.

The body has the innate ability to heal itself. Our jobs as physicians is to learn the appropriate method of stimulation. Join Dr. Mark Sobor as he explains his clinical experience in the effective treatment of upper arm and neck pain through the use of acupuncture, dry needling, and myofascial trigger point injections. These treatment options provide the physician with a safe and effective approach to pain management that is profitable for the practice and satisfactory for the patient. Use of homeopathic injections for the management of acute and chronic pain will be taught. Dr. Sobor will cover case studies as well as demonstrate the various acupuncture techniques he utilizes to resolve pain.

Who should attend this workshop?

This workshop is designed for physicians who would like to expand their daily practice. The workshop will answer questions and teach techniques to treat common pain disorders that occur in a primary care physician's office. Revitalize your practice and expand your ability to help your patients.
